
CALL FOR ARTICLES

RESISTANCE IN AMERICA – THE ANTI-TRUMP MOVEMENT AND BEYOND

Contention is looking for writing by activists, organizers, practitioners, and academics for a special section on resistance movements and struggles in the United States.

If you are interested, please contact:

b.abrams@ucl.ac.uk

FURTHER INFO:

For those involved in social movements, activism and protest, we encourage either pitches or full articles, and will offer writers guidance and mentorship from our editors in order to assist in the process of bringing the piece to publication.

For academic articles, all submissions will undergo peer review by qualified experts, under the supervision of our editorial board. Our general submission guidelines can be found here.

ABOUT THE JOURNAL:

Contention is an academic journal dedicated to social protest and political action. Our work examines collective action, social movements, revolutions, and other forms of social and political contention. Our core mission is to enhance our collective understanding of these phenomena, drawing together work across academic disciplines in dialogue with cutting-edge writing by activists.

Please visit our website for more information about the journal, and previous issues: www.berghahnjournals.com/contention